

The Final Step to Success

Over the last 11 issues you have been taught all of our most successful ideas and techniques that have enabled us to make a full time living online now we are going to teach you how to take the final step to becoming successful.

The final step is... Teaching others what you have learned!

The Final Step to Success

It is not as hard as it sounds, in fact its quite simple and can be incredibly lucrative!

All you need to do is take what you have learned and use that knowledge to create a product.

The kind of product you should create is a step by step guide or a series of videos that explain how to get from point A (being an absolute newbie) to point B (a product or service online)

The Final Step to Success

What most people don't seem to understand is that you need to teach the absolute basics, as most people struggle with the most basic of tasks when they are in the learning stages. So break it down into simple steps and make sure that you include everything, people can always skip steps they already know but they can not add the steps they don't!

The best thing to do is to assume that people do not know anything.

The Final Step to Success

As long as you always keep in mind that people do not know anything about what you are trying to teach them, then you should have a great template for a successful product. You then just need to find some great content to teach people.

Bearing in mind you have 11 previous issues of Multi Profit Monthly, feel free to model anything you have learned in the previous 11 issues, you have the makings of 11 products sitting there.

The Final Step to Success

You do not have to use Multi Profit Monthly to create your own product, you can simply use anything that you have found useful or beneficial in the past. Review the product or service and then model it so you can create a product of your own. Never copy any material, simply use it as a guide.

However if you really want to be successful we recommend that you create a coaching program. this has been the most successful thing that we have ever done.

The Final Step to Success

We recommend that if you create a coaching program that you show people how to create a product or service of their own, so that they can earn from what they learn.

Do not think that you are under qualified, as long as you know how to do it yourself, then you can teach others to do the same!

The Final Step to Success

We would recommend that you divide your coaching into a number of weeks, then deliver your content each week so that the course lasts longer and your customers will feel they are receiving more value for money.

You could include live webinars, telephone support, email support. etc.

The Final Step to Success

You are probably thinking that you could never create a coaching program, you wouldn't know where to start. Well we are going to make it easy for you. John and Dave have very successful coaching programs and we have decided to put together a special deal that allows you access to both programs at a massively reduced price.

We have never made this offer to anyone ever before!

The Final Step to Success

If you do decide to go ahead and take us up on this very special offer you can simply model (NOT COPY) our coaching programs to create the perfect coaching program that you can call your own.

We would highly recommend that you follow our coaching first yourself, as you will get some invaluable advice and training, whatever the level you are at.

The Final Step to Success

You will not only be able to use our coaching as a model for your own, but you'll also benefit greatly from all of the content included. So if you go through the courses first and use all of the knowledge you gain. You will have a massive advantage when you come to create your own coaching program.

The Final Step to Success

Remember! Teaching others what you have learned could be the easiest and most lucrative thing you ever do! Don't be afraid to pass on your knowledge to others.

Don't be afraid to model other products or services that you think are really good! There are 11 issues of Multi Profit Monthly that you can use for ideas.

If you want to make BIG money. Create a coaching program!
